Another 40 had been given shots on Tuesday after two fellow students—the Kresge twins—were hospitalized in Bethlehem with polio. Mrs. Ann Shafer, State nurse, worked with them. (Staff Photo by Randolph)

Mother Of Eight Children Hospitalized With Polio

KUNKLETON—Mrs. Jennie Burger, 41 and the mother of eight children, is Monroe County's latest polio victim. Mrs. Burger was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem, on Tuesday night.

Dr. John Martucci, Brodheadville, the family doctor, had diagnosed the case prior to hospitalization as polio.

St. Luke's hospital authorities confirmed the doctor's diagnosis Wednesday. Mrs. Burger was reported by the hospital to be suffering paralysis of the lower limbs.

Her case was the third in the West End area in the past week. The Kresge twins—Martin and Marlene—were hospitalized over the weekend at St. Luke's where the boy's case was diagnosed definitely as polio. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kresge, Gilbert.

Yesterday afternoon Dr. Martucci wound up an extensive mass inoculation of Polk School students with gamma globulin, a blood fraction used in an effort to prevent polio.

On Tuesday the doctor, who is the school physician, gave GG injections to 40 students. Yesterday a total of 60 children were inoculated.

Martucci was assisted in the mass inoculation project by two volunteer registered nurses—Mrs. Norma Gould and Mrs. Claire Sniffin, both of whom donated their services entirely without charge, as did the doctor.

Working with them, also, was Mrs. Ann Shafer, State nurse in that area. Mrs. Shafer said approximately 20 more children were slated to receive the GG injections from their own doctors this week.

The inoculation of Polk students ended at 2 p. m. yesterday as Harry T. Young, supervising principal, ushered the last of the students into his office where two tables served as the point of operations.

Young said the whole procedure had been carried out in a very orderly fashion. Nurses reported that "these kids were wonderful—they didn't even make a peep or complain a bit."

When the last child had received an injection, Young's turn came. His was the last inoculation on the schedule.

Since the amount of GG given varies with the weight of the person receiving it, there was some

FIVE CENTS

Democrats To Rule Both Houses

Congress To Train Probes On New Targets

Investigators Will Turn To Ike Program

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—The investigative power of Congress will fall into Democratic hands in January, pre-announcing close scrutiny of the inner workings of the Eisenhower administration.

An inevitable aftermath of Tuesday's elections, in which the Democrats seized power in the House and evidently in the Senate as well, will be to train congressional probes on different targets.

With one party in control of the executive department and the other in command of the legislative branch, the setup is tailor-made for full use of congressional investigating committees as sounding boards for the 1956 presidential election.

When the Republicans won control of the 80th Congress during the Truman administration, House Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. said the GOP would open each day with a prayer and close it with an investigation. Now the situation is reversed.

Virtually sure to be caught in the sights of Democratic investigators will be Eisenhower's program aimed at alleged security risks, administration patronage and civil service policies, and the handling of the refugee immigration program.

Administration officials also are likely to be quizzed closely about their policies toward conservation of natural resources, business mergers and monopolies, the awarding of defense contracts and similar issues tied in with Democratic charges of big business favoritism and "giveaway" programs.

The spotlight on Communists in government probes may fade as Republicans who have eagerly dug into the records of past Democratic administrations topple from key committee chairmanships.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) will be out as chairman of the Government Operations Committee and its Permanent Investigations subcommittee if, as expected, the Democrats organize the Senate. In line to replace him in both posts is Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), ranking minority member in the present Congress.

The parent committee and its investigating arm have almost unlimited latitude in probing the executive branch, but McCarthy concentrated on the "Reds in government" issue.

Similarly, the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.), has devoted itself to Communist hunting. It has borne down particularly on what Jenner has called "interlocking subversion in government."

However, Sen. Kilgore (D-W.Va.) is in line for the chairmanship of the full Judiciary Committee and may take over direction of the Internal Security subcommittee. If so, chances are that it will be less active.

Rep. Walter (D-Pa.), slated to succeed Rep. Velde (R-Ill.) as chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, has announced he will move to abolish it and transfer its functions to a subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee.

Passengers will board the cars by stepping onto the moving belt. Then the cars move onto another belt for a 15 mile an hour trip to the other end.

Five Indicted For Conspiracy

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 4 (AP)—Five persons were indicted here today for conspiring to damage property to achieve a political end—Communism.

Named in the Jefferson County grand jury action were Vernon Brown, L. O. Ford, Lewis Lubka, Carl Braden, a copyreader for the Louisville Courier-Journal and Mrs. Braden.

All but Lubka, a former union leader, was indicted last September for advocating sedition. These indictments were returned after the grand jury wound up an investigation of an explosion at the home of Andrew Wade IV.

Wade is a Negro electrical contractor who moved into an all-white neighborhood near Shively, Ky., last spring.

Joking about the amount the principal—a husky, rather heavy-set man—should get.

One bystander said the inoculation should be "at least 40 cc's". (Continued On Page Five)

Squires Boy Wounded By Rifle Shot

AN 11-YEAR-OLD boy was wounded critically while shooting at targets in the woods near his East Stroudsburg RD 1 home yesterday.

The boy, David Squires, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Squires, was taken to General Hospital by his father after the mishap.

Stroudsburg State police said the lad was doing the target practice accompanied by his brother, Joseph, 5. Police are checking details of the accidental shooting, they said.

At the hospital David underwent surgery for the removal of the rifle slug from the lower portion of his body.

Fast Seaplane Explodes On Trial Flight

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 4 (AP)—The world's fastest seaplane, the Convair YF2Y1 Seadart, exploded over San Diego Bay today. The plane, making a speed run across the harbor, shattered apart in a huge burst of yellow flame at about 500 feet above the water.

The pilot, Charles E. Richbourg, was demonstrating the speed and versatility of water-based planes to a crowd watching from Lindbergh Field.

The accident occurred shortly after 3 p. m. just after Richbourg had taken off across the bay.

The plane was approaching from the south when it was seen to burst into flames. The craft started to disintegrate and then there was a great blast of flame, with heat so intense that watchers on shore felt it and ducked down to escape the fire as well as the debris.

The pilot was taken from the water alive but died in a few minutes.

The single-placed Seadart exceeded the speed of sound in a shallow dive last Aug. 3.

Dixon-Yates Pact Attacked By Anderson

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Sen. Anderson (D-MN) charged today the Dixon-Yates power group "will not venture one 50 cent piece" in a new 107-million-dollar power plant it proposes building under a government contract.

Top administration officials on the other hand, defended the proposed contract as being in the public interest, "entirely fair as a business proposition for the government" and a good example of how free enterprise works.

Anderson said the group intends to reclaim its contemplated 5½-million-dollar investment by entering into a cost-plus contract with a subsidiary for building the plant at West Memphis, Ark., and retiring the investment from the profits.

The charge was made in open hearings and in an interview as the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee began a dramatic post-campaign review of the controversial contract. The Atomic Energy Commission has approved the contract but has not signed it.

The committee called in administration officials to testify before deciding whether to give an immediate go-ahead for the contract or to hold it over for the next Congress.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly late today unanimously approved new closed-door talks on disarmament and prohibition of atomic weapons. The project was backed by the Western powers and Russia in their first unanimous action on disarmament since 1946.

Delegates of East and West agreed that the negotiators on disarmament, who are expected to resume their tasks in a few weeks, will face great obstacles.

The 60-nation Assembly approved a resolution providing for a subcommittee made up of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union.

II Taken From Burning Plane

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 4 (AP)—A twin-engine Air Force plane attempting an emergency landing at Tucson Municipal Airport crashed and burned today.

It was not immediately clear how many men were aboard the plane but 11 men were taken to Tucson hospitals with serious injuries. It was believed four others had perished.

Senate Faces Long Debate On McCarthy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said today the Senate will reconvene Monday as scheduled to act on a censure resolution against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and "The debate is just going to have to run its course."

Knowland, the Republican floor leader, said he expects the special session will last at least two weeks, but he declined to guess how much longer than that it might run. The McCarthy camp has suggested it might last until nearly Christmas and Sen. Kerr (D-Ola.) said he would not be surprised if it runs through the rest of the year.

Knowland, questioned at a news conference about a suggestion by Sen. Hayden (D-Ariz.) that the start of the session might be delayed as one result of Tuesday's elections, said he had heard of no request for a postponement.

"I plan to go ahead," Knowland said.

Senate Secretary J. Mark Trice said he looks for "a pretty good turnout" at next week's session and he added that many senators are talking of completing action in time for adjournment before Thanksgiving Day.

McCarthy, in a renewal of his feud with Secretary of the Army Stevens, said today he will demand that Stevens tell "why he is hiding the secret master responsible for codding" former Maj. Irving R. Peress.

"Whoever that was is a dangerous man," McCarthy said.

In view of election results which apparently mean he will be replaced by a Democrat as chairman of the Investigations subcommittee, however, McCarthy said he now doubts it will be possible for him to subpoena witnesses for further questioning about the Peress matter.

McCarthy said he had planned to reopen the Peress case after the Senate acts on the censure resolution.

The promotion and honorable discharge of Peress, a New York dentist whom McCarthy has called a "Fifth Amendment Communist," was one of the chief causes of the McCarthy-Army row investigated by the Senate last spring.

Stevens, replying to a new inquiry by McCarthy, wrote the senator last night saying that two Army officers have been officially reprimanded for delay in handling the Peress case. He did not name these officers.

The Army secretary said no action was taken against three other officers, whom he listed as Maj. Gen. William E. Bergin, the adjutant general, Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, who was commanding officer at Camp Kilmer, N. J., when Peress was discharged there, and Maj. John J. McManus, assigned to the personnel center at Camp Kilmer.

Violators Pay Fines With Spuds

ESCANABA, Mich., Nov. 4 (AP)—Parking violators paid off tickets with potatoes, instead of money, today.

A ticket costs a peck. Ordinarily it is 50 cents.

The new fine schedule, which prevailed today only, was instituted in connection with the Upper Peninsula potato show, which opened yesterday in Escanaba.

Violators delivered their potatoes to justices of the peace, who, in turn, passed them on to the City Welfare Department.

Voter Turnout Ranges From 55 Per Cent Low In Borough Ward To Chestnuthill's 77.7 High STROUDSBURG First Ward voters took less interest than any other district in Tuesday's election.

Only 54.9 percent of the registered voters showed up at the First Ward polls.

Chestnuthill Township residents gave the election Monroe County's biggest turnout. Current figures show that 77.7 per cent of the registered voters in that township cast their ballots Tuesday.

Both figures—and all others in this article—are based on complete but unofficial returns from Tuesday's election. For purposes of projecting percentages, ballots cast for only one office—that of governor—were totaled.

Registration figures for Stroudsburg First Ward show that there were 446 persons eligible to vote in the election. Only 245 of these exercised the voting privilege.

Case Increases New Jersey Lead As Neuberger Bolsters Margin In Oregon Contest

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 4 (AP)—Republican Clifford P. Case moved into a 3,308-vote lead in the New Jersey Senate race tonight and the Democrats asked for a bipartisan move to impound all ballots to insure a "fair and honest election."

The ballots and voting machines in the state's 21 counties already were under police guard on orders from the state attorney general.

Continuing late revisions and re-checks had given Case a widening edge, but a recount was possible. With 18 of the state's 21 county clerks having doublechecked and revised their final figures, Case appeared to be the probable winner over Democrat Charles R. Howell on the basis of unofficial counts. A recount was possible.

Meantime, Sen. Barrett (R-Wyo.) announced that the Senate Privileges and Elections Committee would come to Trenton Saturday "to get the lowdown" on the tight election.

He said the subcommittee would interview candidates and leaders of both parties—although there had been no charges of misconduct—at the request of Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ), who is retiring.

Dr. Sheppard Sobs During Showing Slides Of Wife's Injuries At Murder Trial

CLEVELAND, Nov. 4 (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard sobbed bitterly today at vivid, projected color slides of his wife's head on a morgue slab. They were screened in the courtroom where he is on trial for first degree murder.

Sheppard was not forced to look at the color slides. They outlined to the jury in every horrid detail the battering that left a once attractive woman with blackened eyes, a broken nose, and bone deep gashes that all but pulverized her skull.

Instead, he sat behind the screen as Dr. Lester Adelson, a deputy county coroner, explained the injuries with a pointer, using a classroom technique. Sheppard put his right hand to his eyes, his shoulders shook and he sobbed inaudibly but visibly throughout the gruesome performance in the semi-darkened courtroom.

Dr. Adelson was the first witness in Sheppard's trial that began Oct. 18. He testified for the state that the murdered woman died of a crushed skull. He undergoes cross-examination tomorrow.

Earlier, Dr. Sheppard heard the state of Ohio label him a philanthropic wife-slayer. The prosecutor pointed an accusing finger at him from five feet away as he discussed Sheppard's "activities with other women."

The defense retorted that Sheppard "possessed a gentle nature. . . . There was tenderness in the love Sam Sheppard had for his wife, Marilyn."

And his lawyers said the handsome 30-year-old osteopath sobbed subconsciously after his wife's death.

"I tried to get to Marilyn. I tried to get to Marilyn. I tried to get to Marilyn," Sheppard claimed he was knocked unconscious when he tried to prevent a bushy haired stranger from beating his wife to death in their lakefront bedroom last July 4.

Sheppard is on trial for his life, accused of killing his 21-year-old wife after a love affair with pretty Susan Hayes.

Assistant Prosecutor John J. Mahon, in a 64-minute opening statement, told the jury of seven men and five women:

"We expect the evidence to disclose that this defendant and Marilyn quarreled over the activities of Dr. Samuel Sheppard with other women — and that's the reason she was killed."

Asked by Laborite Arthur Henderson to get the approval of the Commonwealth partners for a Churchill-Malenkov parley to explore steps for a settlement of cold war differences, Churchill said:

"No subject will be excluded from the discussions of the visiting ministers."

The Commonwealth nations are Australia, Britain, Canada, Ceylon, India, New Zealand, Pakistan, South Africa and the new Central African Federation of the Rhodesias and Nyasaland.

Smog Changes Color Of Tie

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4 (AP)—The tie worn by a University of Southern California student changed color today as he sat in a class room.

The cravat was transformed from a coral shade to a bluish purple, and faculty members blamed the phenomenon on the smog.

The Weather

Rain mixed with some snow ending this afternoon turning colder late today. Saturday considerable cloudiness and colder. High temperature today 36-42.

Gain Control Of Senate By Morse's Vote

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Democrats prepared today to take the helm in both houses of Congress, and spoke of cooperating with President Eisenhower when they consider him right.

Although there had been some talk they might pass up the Senate command—theirs to take by the narrowest of margins—that talk was swamped in statements of several top Democrats that they owe it to the people to take the responsibility.

Such men as Sens. George Russell of Georgia, Pastore of Rhode Island, Gore of Tennessee and Mansfield of Montana all spoke out positively in favor of organizing the Senate as well as the House. The Democrats passed up a similar opportunity last year when the Republican-Democratic division was almost even.

To top it all, the Senate Democratic leader, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, said at Austin:

"We asked the people of the country to elect Democrats in order that we could assume the responsibilities of a majority. Apparently there will be a majority of the members of the Senate sufficient to organize it. If we can organize it, we will."

Johnson said the next session of Congress can be "brief, constructive and harmonious."

At the same time, Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) talked cheerfully of switching from majority to minority leader next January, if the Republicans want him to continue to be their chieftain.

The Democrats nosed into a position for Senate control early today with announcement of the election of Richard L. Neuberger, a 41-year-old author, to the Oregon Senate seat held for a decade by Republican Guy Cordon.

Neuberger's margin was thin as a wafer, however, and conceivably could be upset by rechecks. The final, official report from Oregon isn't expected until about Dec. 1.

Neuberger, a prolific writer for regional and national publications and a persistent advocate of public power for the Pacific Northwest, gave the Democrats a total of 48 seats in the Senate. That's just half the Senate membership of 96 but Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind-Ore) reaffirmed that he will vote with the Democrats when it comes time to organize the Senate in January.

There was no question about the overturn in the House. The Democrats gained solidly there—though by not nearly as much as is customary for the "outs" to win in a midterm election—and elected 232 representatives to 263 for the Republicans.

Practically speaking, it has been a coalition of conservative Democrats and Republicans who have had the most say about legislation in the 83rd Congress and the same situation should continue the next two years in the 84th.

The President, Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker-to-be Sam Rayburn all have now announced attitudes of working together on the basis of what is good for the country.

Eisenhower took his stand at his Wednesday news conference, and Rayburn and Johnson said Democrats would stand back of the President when they thought he was right, oppose him when they thought he was wrong.

Union Steward Indicted On Blast Charge

SCRANTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Paul Bradshaw, 36, a steward for Local 229, General Drivers and Helpers, AFL, was indicted today by the Lackawanna County grand jury for felonious use of explosives in connection with the dynamiting of a partially constructed home here last May 1. Bradshaw is a former prizefighter.

The explosion which wrecked the partially completed house, police charge, resulted from a dispute over the failure of the building contractor to hire union labor. The contractor told police he had received threats several days before the blast.

What Damage Was Done

Sixty-eight per cent of the total registered vote in any region during a so-called "off-year" election is a good voting record. With about the most impossible weather any candidate or voter could conceive, Monroe County voters poured out 12,168 strong. The other 5,639 voters in Monroe County never went near the polls. When that many citizens stay away from the election booths in an election which names office holders who will, in a sense, "rule" them for four years, it is time to take stock. These people have ignored one of the first rules of good citizenship. What harm they have done, cannot be judged, but whatever it is, it extends not only to themselves, but to those who did exercise good citizenship.

Coming Up . . . !

Now that you have voted—you did vote, didn't you?—there are other things to keep our days busy. The special session of the Senate to consider the censure of Joe McCarthy, for instance. That will sneak up on us Monday. We hope it is short, if not sweet.

But Christmas is coming, so be of good cheer. Cheerful interim note: Turkeys for Thanksgiving will be extra numerous and the cheapest in a dozen years.

The Christmas season this year promises to be a humdinger. We can't make any promises about the weather, but we do know the people who sell things are feeling pretty good about it. Looking ahead to a big rush. Scads of new gadgets for everybody.

Queen Mother Elizabeth of Britain already has set a pace by doing some early shopping in New York's glittering stores—sweaters for her daughters, Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, toys for the children in the royal household, a scrabble set for herself. The Queen Mother was reported fascinated by what the American stores had to offer. But she perhaps only got a sampling of what's in store for the Christmas crowds, judging by the Santa Claus reading we've been doing.

For instance, toys this year are designed on the constructive side—Junior can do a road-building job with the new power shovels, road scrapers and bucket loaders; Sister can learn to cook with miniature packages of real food and special cookbooks for children.

So it will go, all through the Christmas list. Competition is keen, and the Santa Claus merchants are out to dazzle you with the latest in a record splash of new ideas, all done up in fancy, and often useful, new packaging.

Oh, it promises to be a dandy season. Makes you sort of wonder, too, about all the dismal talk we heard from the political stumps.

But you did vote, didn't you?

Real Reason For Chaplains Inability To Return Here Was Conduct Prior To Ban

Charlie Chaplin's funny bone may amuse him, but to most Americans he is just an ingrate, a cockney without a sense of moral responsibility. He now announces that he will do a satire on modern American life. He might do the story of his own life in the United States, from 1910 to 1952, where he was welcomed and made enormously rich, only to bite the hand that fed him, which no self-respecting dog would do. That would be a fitting satire on American life, on the good nature of an easy-going people who take to their hearts such people as Hannu and Gerhart Eisler as well as Chaplin and that other British subject, Klaus Fuchs.

In an interview with the London "Daily Mirror," Chaplin said about his satire:

"It will not have any recognizable American characters. I don't think they are important enough."

"I hope to start filming in about four months. If nobody else is amused by it, I shall get lots of fun out of making it."

This will undoubtedly intrigue his Hollywood friends who bask in their own importance and who vainly came to his defense. They are no longer "important enough" for the clown, because they are Americans, while he is a citizen of the world with a penchant for the Kremlin, devoting his graying days to hatred of the country that gave him bread when he was a hungry clown.

However, as Charlie Chaplin has always been known to love a dollar, he may find it not so funny if his picture cannot be shown in the United States, because Americans will not go to it. Then he will discover that even if Americans are not important enough, they have some pride and dignity left and that if they want to laugh at themselves, they can do it without malice and hatred. Charlie will not find this picture so amusing, if he loses money, particularly as money has been the only god he has worshiped, apart from himself, during the many years that he was permitted to practise what his Russian friends call Hooliganism in this country.

Charlie Chaplin has been giving away some of the Communist-supported Vienna Peace Council prize money given to him—or so he advertises—to old people. If it is true, it is probably the first money he ever gave to anything voluntarily. He said:

"It isn't much money, but it may brighten up a life for a few people. I don't think they will worry about where the money came from."

"I suppose he is right. Many people do not care where any money comes from, but, in saying that, Chaplin gives a stigma to the prize which he accepted. If it were not tainted money, why should there be any doubt about it? Subconsciously, he must wonder if a decent person can really share it with him.

It is impossible to understand why this man who was permitted to enjoy life here for decades has always hated the United States. Is it a kind of cockney snobism? John Garfield, before he died, told me that Chaplin was responsible for his great success in Hollywood. But Garfield also told me that most of the petitions and proclamations to which he lent his name and that got him into so much trouble were signed under Chaplin's influence. How many other Hollywood artists, in the worship of this man, moved to the Left to cater to his political tastes?

If Chaplin's anger against our country were only due to his expulsion from it, that might serve as an explanation. But the real reason for his inability to return to the United States was his conduct prior to the lifting of his visa. He had become so antagonistic to the land that had been host to him that his presence had become intolerable.

Well, laugh, clown, laugh! Laugh at us, if you like. There have been others that have done that. They have laughed until they became hysterical. But we shall not laugh with you; we cannot even laugh at you. And when the clowning is over and the laughter has died away, the United States will still stand strong and generous—the nation that has always given freely and received so little return for its broad kindness.

grossly overpaid or underpaid for these services. It has been charged in court that the two unions acted in concert. Can we then assume that the other two parties to the dispute, Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Kime, neither conferred with each other nor revealed to each other their plans for action or the lack of it? Perhaps so, but it would be a waste of an assumption.

In view of these facts, was it quite fair to any of the parties involved for Mr. Cleveland to accept his contract without first taking steps to insure the job against the work stoppage which he must have known would result? And, if it was not quite fair, should not Mr. Cleveland shoulder a portion of the blame for the ensuing stoppage? Did he not, in fact, take advantage of the relative inexperience of the building committee to bring to a head his long-standing feud with Ralph Paul and the Plumber's Union?

At any rate, now that the present hassle is pretty well settled, it would seem sensible to go to the bottom of the thing and learn something of the reasons for it, so as to arrive at some sort of feasible plan for avoiding such painful and expensive occurrences in the future. God Can't Be Blamed For Failures Of Individuals

During the hurricanes which have been sweeping the country since August, a number of persons were killed by falling electric wires. The survivors of several of these people have engaged lawyers who will bring suits against the power companies for damages, saying that had the wires been put up properly, the accidents would not have occurred.

On the other hand, the attorneys for the power companies will claim that storms are "an act of God," and that their clients cannot be held responsible for such acts.

The Consolidated Edison Company of New York, when questioned, said through one of its spokesmen that they considered the falling of wires a fault of their own, and that they are inclined to be liberal when it comes to settling claims.

If you have ever read the fine print in your insurance policies, or on other forms of contracts, you may have seen that quite a few human errors may well be construed as "acts of God," and thus exonerate the "party of the first part" from meeting their moral and legal obligations.

What is an "act of God"? To answer this question we must enter the field of religion, a field which always, when discussed, brings about the most violent controversies, and on which few people can agree, no matter how much they argue about it.

Thus, I must ask you to take my opinions on the matter merely as my opinions and not as code or law. If you don't agree with me, you are, of course, entitled to disagree completely.

I don't believe that God can be held responsible for anything in which human beings have failed, particularly when it comes to mechanical devices.

God has given us the power to think, to create, to build. He is not doing that for us. MAN puts up wires that may fall. MAN builds structures that may topple. MAN conceals mixtures that may poison him.

One of the greatest assets with which God has endowed MAN is the power of freedom. He gave us the freedom of choice. He gave us the opportunity to be either good or bad; to do either right or wrong.

If we put up wires that fall in a storm, it certainly is not God's fault. We drew up the blueprints; we made the wires and the posts and the insulators and everything connected with their erection.

Why then pass the buck to God if we have failed? I believe in prayer. But I don't think that any man or woman has a right to pray to God for things the achievement or getting of which are rightly part of the powers which He has given us.

I believe that God is all-powerful. But I also believe that, after He has once given us the power to dispose of our own destinies, He is much too busy to look after the individual interests of everyone of the billions of human beings that live on this earth.

Jane Allison, ninety-nine pounds of charm and talent, is billed by her studio as "the typical American girl." One of her greatest assets is a low, husky voice. When she first came to Hollywood, however, she had achieved fame in New York in the musical, "Best Foot Forward," and the Copacabana.

An MGM big-wig decreed, "She'll never do with that croaking kind of speech." This same genius now takes chief credit for Jane's dizzy climb to stardom. "I knew it," he proclaims, "the moment I heard the magic in her voice!"

The day Breslawer collapsed and was rushed off to the hospital, the boys at the office lost no time in showing their consideration. An emissary was sent up to assure him, "All you've got to do, old man, is get well. Everybody is going to pitch in and do your work for you while you're gone—that is, as soon as anybody can find out what work you've been doing."

Robert S. Allen Reports

Weeks Making Good Record Disposing Of War Surplus

Washington, Nov. 5 — Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks is setting a remarkable speed record in disposing of huge amounts of surplus military property. In the first half of this year, he sold approximately as much as in all of 1953. Last year, a total of $700,000,000 was disposed of, for which the government got $52,637,565. In the first six months of 1954, the amounts are $747,667,919 in original cost and $32,451,558 in cash receipts.

Also so far this year, another $300,000,000 worth of military equipment has been declared surplus abroad and is being unloaded there. In addition, $37,073,633 of this type property has been donated to educational institutions, $25,357,808 to federal agencies, and $16,914,198 destroyed or abandoned.

An interesting feature of this remarkable record is that it is virtually unknown to the general public. There has been no publicity about it.

This silence is in striking contrast to the fanfare surrounding surplus sales following World War II. Quantities of these stocks were put on public display, and veterans, states and cities had priority in buying them. Under Secretary Weeks, disposal has been primarily through business channels.

These and other details of the giant operation are disclosed in an unpublished Pentagon report.

The report reveals that in the first half of this year, $1,018,694,112 in military equipment was declared surplus as compared to a total of $1,259,727-$23 for all of 1953, and $569,680,890 for 1952, and $329,223,040 for 1951.

Most of this property came from the Army. There is no indication in the Pentagon report what the total will be for the whole of 1954. Privately, officials estimate the figure around $2,000,000,000.

No Publicity—Secretary Weeks imposed the black-out on the disposal of surplus property in a special directive.

It is titled "Memorandum of Understanding," and constitutes an agreement with the three armed services not to disclose anything about this activity without his approval. Following are the highlights of this unannounced arrangement:

"The purpose of this Memorandum of Understanding is to establish a systematic review by the Department of Commerce of significant sales of Defense Department surplus property and the subsequent issuance of technical market study reports concerning sensitive items . . . indicating market impact of serious proportions likely to result from the sale of quantities of such selected items. To carry out the mutual objective of these two Departments . . . the following cooperative arrangement is established:

"The staffs of the several industry divisions of the Business and Defense Services Administration, Department of Commerce, will review lists of excess and surplus property available for sale and evaluate the cumulative market impact of such offerings upon commodity inventories and price situations. Based on such evaluations of sensitive items, technical market study reports will be issued in determining current and future plans for the disposal of such items . . .

"No news releases shall be made by either agency concerning the reports issued by the Department of Commerce to the Department of Defense, unless and until they are cleared and approved by authorized officials for both agencies."

Under this agreement, Weeks also ruled against Secretary Ovea Hobby having a voice in the handling of surplus property.

The head of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare wanted that in order to obtain a large amount of the surplus military equipment for schools, clinics and hospitals. Weeks held the institutions should buy these supplies from the business concerns and dealers who purchase them from the government.

Dear Mr. Ostrom:

My thanks to you for the courtesies extended to me upon my recent call.

This year the United States Treasury Department of the Savings Bonds Division has adopted the slogan "A Billion More in '54" seeking to sell that many more dollars' worth of Savings Bonds in 1954.

With the cooperation of newspapers such as yours keeping Savings Bonds ever before the public, I feel confident that this goal will be reached.

Your continued use of editorials and slogans is greatly appreciated. Should you require any additional information at any time, please do not hesitate to let me know. Thanks again for your cooperation.

Credit For GI Storm Damages

—by H. G. Heller

It's an ill wind . . . That's not exactly axiomatic in every instance, but here's one where it is.

Bernard A. O'Hara contacted us this week from his Wilkes-Barre VA Regional Office with some good news for veterans of World War II and post Korea veterans in the Pennsylvania and Maryland districts whose homes were damaged or lost during hurricane "Hazel."

All of those veterans may get assistance through the Veterans Administration Loan Guaranty Program.

This is line with a move by President Eisenhower when he declared certain areas in "disaster district," and invoked all assistance laws for areas not qualifying for "disaster" relief.

Through this move to aid those hurt by "Hazel" the administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency has informed VA that as a result of the President's action, the Federal National Mortgage Association (FNMA) will make special credit available to veterans made homeless by the hurricane.

Veterans who had all or part of their loan guaranty benefits available, can make contracts to purchase VA guaranteed disaster mortgages made by private lenders as a result of the disaster.

It may be possible in some cases for World War II and Post-Korea Veterans whose GI homes were so severely damaged as to have their loan guaranty rights restored if VA does not suffer any loss on the original loan.

O'Hara also urged veterans with GI loans on homes affected by the hurricane to get in touch with their lenders to work out plans, if necessary, for extending or reamortizing loan payments. He said the VA will cooperate fully.

Lenders holding GI Loans also grant supplemental GI loans to veterans for the restoration of the home or for property damage, O'Hara said.

Of course more details on these credit aids to veterans affected by the hurricane may be obtained from O'Hara at VA Regional Office, 19 N. Main St., Wilkes-Barre.

All of this is another example of the greatness of a democracy in the service of its people in the time of disaster.

That these credit aids should be extended to veterans who served to preserve that democracy no one will deny.

No small amount of work went into arranging this assistance—as everyone knows who deals with government—but the results of this aid effort are fully warranted.

School Week Program Set For Bangor

BANGOR—The Bangor branch of the Pennsylvania State Education Association yesterday announced plans for the observance of American Education Week next week.

Highlight will be the annual "Parents' Night," to be held on Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. Dr. Harold P. Thomas, head of the Department of Education of Lehigh University, will be the speaker.

Several selections will be played on the new organ recently installed in the high school auditorium. Both parents and students will attend the opening exercises and then the parents will attend a regular class schedule with the students.

Classes will be dismissed at 8:35 p.m. when teachers will be hosts to parents of their home-room pupils. Parents will be given a tour of the new home economics department of the high school and then will be served refreshments in the auditorium.

Dr. Trever Williams, principal of the high school, reported that students will not attend classes Tuesday afternoon but will attend classes that night instead.

Benefit Play Postponed At Polk School

KRESGEVILLE—A play, slated for tonight at Polk School here, has been postponed due to the appearance of polio in this area.

So far three cases of polio have been reported in the West End. Two were the Kresge twins, hospitalized last Sunday. The third was Mrs. Norman Burger, Kunkletown RD2, taken to the hospital Tuesday night.

The play, for the benefit of the school band and sponsored by the Polk Band Boosters Club, will be held at a future date to be announced later, according to Harry Young, Polk principal.

Young emphasized that the postponement was purely a precautionary measure and that no other polio cases have been reported in the West End area.

Navy Relaxes Reenlistment Regulations

THE NAVY has further relaxed its regulations for enlistments by permitting certain personnel to reenlist in the regular Navy and still retain benefits of continuous service even though they may have been separated from the Navy for a year or more.

Announcement of this policy was made here yesterday by Comdr. C. W. Cushman, officer in charge of the Philadelphia Navy recruiting district.

Comdr. Cushman explained these benefits were previously extended to a man who signed a new enlistment contract within 90 days from date of his separation.

Any man holding any one of these ten critical ratings may reenlist and retain the rating even though his separation has exceeded 90 days: communications technician, electrician's mate, electronics technician, pipefitter, interior communications technician, mine, radarman, radioman, sonarman, teleman.

Chief Petty Officer Shirley of the Stroudsburg Postoffice recruiting station is taking enlistments here Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Knowland Sees No Pattern In GOP Defeats

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California said today the Democrats won "an obvious victory" by wresting control of Congress from the Republicans but that it could not be regarded as "a repudiation of the Eisenhower administration."

Apparently local issues and personalities were the determining factors, Knowland said, commenting that he could find no general pattern for Republican defeats other than the traditional loss of strength by the party in power in non-presidential elections.

Knowland, meeting with reporters in his office, also said he does not think the Democratic gains in the off-year election are "necessarily a forerunner" of what will happen in the 1956 presidential election.

In response to a question, he said he expects President Eisenhower will seek a second term but that he has not talked with the President about this.

"I have assumed he would be a candidate in 1956," Knowland said. "I know of no reason to change my assumption."

"The long history of the country has been that regardless of personal reasons, there are cogent reasons why he should be a candidate again."

Knowland said he doubts the "New Deal, ADA-CIO wing of the Democratic party can get any satisfaction about 1956" from the Democratic victory this week. He was referring to the next presidential campaign.

Knowland said he expects the Democrats to organize and control the Senate, adding that this new responsibility "might develop some cleavages in their own ranks."

He said he is willing to act as minority leader for Republicans in the January session if Republican senators ask him to do so.

Jet's Flight Made Without Refueling

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 4 (AP)—A Navy pilot's nonstop flight in a jet fighter plane without refueling from Los Alamitos, Calif., to nearby Cecil Field in less than four hours has Navy and civilian flight authorities wondering how he did it.

Ens. Duane L. Varner, 24, of Los Angeles, Calif., was returning from a routine familiarization flight to the California naval station when he made the fast transcontinental hop.

The Navy says Varner took off from Los Alamitos field at 4:46 p.m. EST and landed here at 8:44 p.m. EST—an elapsed flying time of three hours and 58 minutes for the approximately 1,900 miles.

Navy officials say his F2H Banshee has a rated fuel capacity of 800 miles. They can account for the 1,900-mile nonrefueling flight only by surmising Varner got into a vast jet stream in perfect flying weather.

Situation Gives Eisenhower Chance To Prove Whether He Is A Great President

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

THERE HAVE BEEN strong indications for several years that the extremist bloc at both ends of the American political axis have been losing strength to the center.

For a long time congressional action has been dependent on the coalition votes of inter-party blocs. In 1952 the Republicans gained control of both houses by tiny margins. Now the Democrats have done the same.

These narrow divisions in Congress, however, since they are the sum total of individual and only slightly related local election contests, are less indicative than the extreme closeness of the decisions in so many of the individual contests themselves.

Elections have been decided by mere handfuls of votes in numerous areas.

One is almost tempted to say that no greater benefit could come to American politics than to keep the politicians of both parties constantly aware that they are walking a tight-rope, subject to ruin by the least bobble. That is a fundamental of the two-party system which has not always worked because of violent swings in public sentiment from time to time, leading to party overconfidence and laxness in government.

But there are dangers, too, when party control of government is so narrow that it has no real mandate, and responsibility is too much divided. It leads to indecision just as surely as does that bane of European political systems, a superabundance of parties. It also leads to buck passing. When there is fault in government, it leads to difficulty for the public in placing the blame.

President Eisenhower's quick decision to get to work with the new leaders of Congress in order to get the business of the country done indicates that he is taking his new difficulties philosophically.

In one respect, the situation gives him an opportunity to prove whether he is a great President. It puts upon him and his administration the responsibility of presenting to Congress only such proposals as have been worked out so carefully that their need is apparent.

It places upon Democratic leaders the responsibility for seeing to it that no truly beneficial legislation falls victim to partisan expediency.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

November is a very busy month for projects. Clubs start out in October to plan their projects. They usually try to get at least one of them completed before January.

And since they don't want to risk running into Christmas shopping and December snows, November is the time they pick. Church bazaars, church suppers, cake walks and penny suppers, bazaar and cake sales crowd the calendar.

The Ann Logans are doubly busy because they've had to close out their birthday calendars and put up their fruit cake, two major projects and both of them in November.

The AAUW Fellowship Committee fits in its Book Fair with Book Week, which also makes it a November activity. Bobbie Reese is hoping to be snowed under with telephone calls this week since the committee is anxious to get their hands on as many books as possible so they can start sorting and pricing them.

That's a chore—but an interesting one—especially when the committee starts reading gems to each other, from the books they're sorting. I'd suggest that you start going over your own books to see whether you have any to donate, but I'm afraid you'd end up the same way I do, re-reading some book you forgot you had instead of getting to the work at hand.

Well, one thing—if you do give your books to the book fair, your clothes and furniture and stuff to the Smithfield Thrift Shop, and the rest to your favorite rummage sale, it will be much easier to get your house cleaning done by Thanksgiving. Nothing but bare floors.

Miss Pensyl, R. G. Kindrew To Wed Sat.

Ann Logans To Cut Up At Meeting

The Ann Logan General Hospital Society meeting has been advanced until 7 o'clock on Monday night to allow extra time for the members to work on preparing the ingredients for the fruit cakes, which the society will again offer for holiday sale.

Members are asked to come equipped with aprons, scissors, and knives for cutting up the ingredients. The number of cakes to be baked will be limited this year, so that orders must be turned in by November 10.

Proceeds from the fruit cake sale as well as from the birthday calendar sale are used for Ann Logan projects for the General Hospital.

Mrs. Horace Butler, president, will preside at the business session on Monday night.

Mrs. Gilbert Scharf was delegated at this meeting to contact the school authorities for the purpose of ascertaining whether credit can be given students for their progress in music. Discussion of some form of awards for children who have shown outstanding ability in music was held. I can't say when I've enjoyed an evening more than the one spent at State Teachers College auditorium where pianist-composer Ray Dudley opened the present Community Concert series. What a lucky break for me that one of my friends couldn't use his ticket, and passed it along. Mr. Dudley is very young . . . very gifted . . . and immensely likable. Despite the storm, through which everyone had tripped in the interests of culture . . . despite his delay of more than a half hour, one couldn't do any less than smile warmly when he appeared with his very boyish apologetic speech about being late. And when he played - well, I've never seen a piano bow and walk offstage, but I did see that one dance. The fact that the formally attired Mr. Dudley, rushing to reach the concert hall, had lacked time to change his red and green argyle socks, only made him the more human and the nicer. What I wouldn't have given to be able to seat him at one of the pianos in our music store, and let him present yesterday's Wyckoff Shopper broadcast!

When the first copy of the Christmas annual appears on our stationery counter, followed by the Christmas issue of Better Homes and Gardens . . . and when you are reminded that it's time for Florence to order your usual copy of the Art Annual, you know that Kris Kringle is breathing down your chimney. There are other ways of knowing too . . . by the ever-diminishing piles of greeting card boxes, by the appearance of a tree in a neighboring store window, by the tang in the air and the reminders that, "I'm budgeting now for Christmas buying." Then too, there's little Anna Williams of our Tea Room, official custodian of Wyckoff Christmas Club dollars, handing holly-decorated books to each lucky member with the cheery word that "it's all paid now." The most constant reminder at home is my second son's first question when I appear each night: WHERE will the Christmas toys be at Wyckoff's this year? To which I can answer: all over the place, son . . . and probably hanging from the rafters, we're that loaded.

One of my favorite customers is a pleasant lady who takes time every now and then to remind me that she reads this column, enjoys it, and purchases unusual items mentioned here from time to time. "It happened to be at the Lakehurst Naval Air Base with my daughter recently, following the birth of her baby," she told me Wednesday, "and the Record arrived with your column about the new 'burping tube' for parents. They sounded wonderful to me, because we'd been using my daughter's, and some of her young friends pointed out, a diaper from the diaper service costs two cents . . . so figure it out on the basis of all your feedings per day. This burping business is expensive. Well . . . imagine this - I telephoned my husband and asked him to send four of the bibs. He called back, and said that Wyckoff's had only one left in stock. He did send that, and we all thought they were a wonderful idea. Those telephone calls cost more than the bib probably . . . but at any rate, we're enjoying the bib as much as we enjoyed reading about it."

Now I ask you, could I help but enjoy such a nice friendly compliment during an otherwise dull day?

Former Athletes Expected To Attend Social Gathering Planned By Varsity 'E' Membership

NEXT TUESDAY'S social gathering of the Varsity "E" Club at Tom-X Ranch, is being billed as a get together of former athletes from the N. Courtland St. school. Kirk Shaw, president of the club, announced that the social gathering is held annually to enable former athletes to get together and swap stories of their various experiences. Tickets for the affair are now available at Lloyd's Sporting Goods Store and at Summa's Barber Shop. They are selling for 50 cents. Anyone wishing to attend the party is urged to obtain his ticket or tickets as soon as possible. No tickets will be sold after Saturday. A deadline was placed on the sale of tickets so that the management of Tom-X Ranch would have an idea as to how many fellows will be present. Shaw also announced that membership cards may also be purchased at Lloyd's and Summa's Shop. Chet Kupiszewski, former athlete and currently active in furthering the cause of athletics in East Stroudsburg, was elected vice president of the Varsity "E" Club at Wednesday's meeting. Kupiszewski succeeds Shaw, who in turn succeeded Reg Nauman as president. Bill Hudak is treasurer of the organization and Tom Verway is treasurer.

Holy Cross To Travel By Air, While State Works On Ground

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 4 (AP)—Saturday's Penn State-Holy Cross football game here shapes up as a straight passing vs. running contest and both sides are armed with a three gun punch. The Nittany Lions—a ground team this season after depending on an aerial game for two years—have a trio of good runners led by the nation's No. 2 man in rushing—Lenny Moore. The team has rolled up an average of 257.5 yards in each of six games. Holy Cross, playing Penn State for the first time in history, brings three potent passers and is expected to concentrate on its air game since Penn State's aerial defense has not proven outstanding.

AP Expert Likes UCLA, Ohio State

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—A Brooklyn housewife, using the eeny-meeny-miny-mo system, picked 15 winners in 15 games last week for first prize in a newspaper football contest. She said she thought a quarterback was what you get when you laid out a buck for 75 cents' worth of pork chops. Her intricate system of slide rules, crystal balls and tea leaves gave us 35 winners, 13 setbacks and a 729 average. Season's score: 234-94 for 713.

We bravely try again: Ohio State over Pittsburgh: The honeymoon ends for Admiral Tom Hamilton, who has done a great job. The Buckeyes have the stuff to stop "Corny" Salvaterra.

UCLA over Oregon: The nation's number one team, with Primo Villanueva romping, should win by three touchdowns.

Rice over Arkansas: Dick Moege should prove the difference in handling the Razorbacks their first defeat.

Oklahoma over Iowa State: The Sooners, stung by the drop to third place in the poll, roll up a big score.

Duke over Navy: The Blue Devils buoyed by their close squeak over Georgia Tech. No team is "high" after meeting Notre Dame.

Army over Yale: If the field turns up dry, the Cadets' tremendous speed will hand old Eli its first defeat. A close game if it's wet.

Purdue at Iowa: Stop Lenny Dawson's passes and Bill Mura-kowski rips your middle—that's Purdue's success formula.

Southern California over Stanford: Stanford is the season's most baffling up-and-down team, but Southern Cal scents roses.

West Virginia over Fordham: Art Lewis may find it hard to get the Mountaineers' spirits up after the loss to Pitt, but West Virginia has too much power.

Texas over Baylor: The Longhorns break their scoring lethargy.

Notre Dame over Penn: The Fighting Irish have had some close squeaks but should win this one easily.

Georgia Tech over Tennessee: Bobby Dodd has whipped the Engineers into a fighting mood.

The others: Friday Night Virginia Tech over George Washington, Kansas State over Drake, Marquette over Boston College.

Saturday EAST—Boston University over Villanova, Dartmouth over Columbia, Princeton over Harvard, Cornell over Syracuse, Penn State over Holy Cross, Colgate over Bucknell, Brown over Springfield, Rutgers over Lafayette.

MIDWEST—Michigan over Illinois, Nebraska over Kansas, Michigan State over Washington State, Minnesota over Oregon State, Wisconsin over Northwestern, Indiana over Miami (Ohio), Oklahoma A&M over Detroit, Missouri over Colorado, Mississippi Southern over Dayton.

SOUTH—Alabama over Tulane, Miami (Fla.) over Auburn.

Chicago Newspaper Denies Charge

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Chicago Daily News today denied a claim by the Illinois State Athletic Commission that a news reporter, who authored an "expose" series on criminal influence in boxing, had exonerated the sport in Illinois and declined to appear before the commission. The newspaper made a point-by-point denial of a letter which Livingston Osborne, commission chairman, sent to Truman J. Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, concerning the series by writer Jack Mabley. Gibson, in an earlier letter to Osborne, asserted Mabley had concluded that boxing had been "kidnapped by syndicate criminals." Gibson asked the commission to investigate Mabley's charge that Chicago "had a vital concern in the racket (boxing) in which Frankie Carbo was described as czar."

White Sox To Back Johnson

CHICAGO, Nov. 4 (AP)—Charles Comiskey, vice-president of the Chicago White Sox, said he was "100 per cent" in favor of the sale of the Philadelphia Athletics to Chicagoan Arnold Johnson today. "The White Sox were 100 per cent behind the shift of the A's to Kansas City at the American League's Oct. 12 meeting," said Comiskey, "and we'll be 100 per cent behind Kansas City at the next meeting."

Athletic Group Approves Ticket Plans

Dates Set For Sale Of Reserved Seats

TICKET sales, seating arrangements and other topics of business concerning the Thanksgiving Day football game between Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High Schools were the main business discussions at last night's meeting of the East Stroudsburg Athletic Association.

The meeting was held in the East Stroudsburg High School building.

Lewis Hastie, faculty athletic manager at East Stroudsburg High, revealed that reserved seat tickets will be sold at the game for $1.50, while general admission tickets will sell for one dollar and student admission blanks for 35 cents.

Reserved seat tickets will be sold at the high school building on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 16, 17 and 18. The sales will take place from 7 to 9 p.m. on each of the dates listed. Student general admission tickets will be sold at the same time. Later reserved tickets will be sold down town.

Adult general admission tickets will be available only at Memorial Stadium on the date of the game.

Stroudsburg High will sell its tickets on the same dates as East Stroudsburg. They will be on sale all day at DeVivo's Shoe Repair and at the high school during noon hour.

It was announced during the course of the meeting that the Varsity "E" Club would assist with the many tasks necessary to make the game a success this year.

Plans for seating arrangements for the Turkey Day game were approved at the gathering.

The Athletic Association granted the Varsity "E" Club permission to hold its planned Christmas basketball tournament this year. But the association stipulated that it must meet with the Varsity "E" Club to solve some of the problems involved in such an undertaking.

An investigation of the possibility of purchasing glass basketball backboards for the school gymnasium will be carried out by the association. If the price is right they will be installed for the coming season.

A letter was read from the Stroudsburg Rotary club, stating that the East Stroudsburg High School football team, coaches and administrators would be guests of the club at the Penn-Stroud Hotel on November 18. Stroudsburg grid-ders, coaches and administrators will be guests of the club at the same time.

It was also revealed that the East Stroudsburg team would be guests of the school board at a banquet to be held on Monday, December 6.

The meeting was completed with a discussion of finances and a reading of the financial report.

Andrews, Graham, Cartier, McNeece Among Fighters Expected To Train At Area Camp Soon

COLUMBIA, N. J. — Paul Andrews, rising young light heavyweight contender from Buffalo, N. Y., will launch a training program here at Harry's Farm beginning on Saturday, it was announced last night by Harry Freedman, owner of the area training camp.

Andrews, managed by Marshall Miles, former trainer for Joe Louis, will face the veteran Joey Maxim on Wednesday, November 24, in the biggest bout of the Buffalo battler's career.

The youthful light heavyweight, who has trained at Harry's Farm on several occasions previously, will probably launch his boxing drills next Wednesday.

Nino Valdes, number one challenger for the heavyweight title now owned by "Rocky" Marciano, is scheduled to arrive in camp for a lengthy training session in the near future. Valdes is expected to take part in a couple of tune-up fights while awaiting a shot at the heavyweight crown.

Billy McNeece, popular middleweight, is currently working out at Harry's Farm for a bout with Ken Olo. Joe Shaw arrived in camp yesterday and will serve as a sparring partner for McNeece. "Rocky" Tomasello, another sparring mate, will arrive in the near future and will also box against McNeece.

McNeece holds a decision over Joe LaBau, another youthful boxer who trained at the local camp last summer.

Slade Battles Baker In TV Bout

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4 (AP)—Jimmy Slade, fifth ranking heavyweight title contender from New York, and hard hitting Bob Baker, Pittsburgh, meet here tomorrow night in a scheduled 10 round nationally televised bout at the Arena.

The fighters have been promised new hats by Frank Wiener, state athletic commission chairman. If they'll put on the type of fight that will eliminate the aroma that still remains from the last TV fight in these parts—the Kid Gavilan-Johnny Saxton fiasco—Slade and Baker would probably have to kill each other to make anyone who was there forget Gavilan and Saxton.

Wiener issued a "Let's bleed, boys" notice when the two heavies received their pre-fight physical. The commissioner is anxious to avert anything that even faintly smells like the battle (?) in which Saxton won the welterweight title from Gavilan.

The bout will be televised (CBS) nationwide on the regular Friday night video fight show.

O'Doul Signs To Manage Oakland Club

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 4 (AP)—Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, 57-year-old veteran baseball figure, today was named manager of the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League.

O'Doul skipped San Diego to the league championships this year. Terms were not disclosed but it was believed O'Doul would get what San Diego had paid him, a reported $20,000. Brick Laws, the Oaks' owner, said O'Doul would manage Oakland "from now on," but it was understood the contract was for one year.

O'Doul said he was influenced by the fact the Philadelphia Athletics were sold today to Arnold Johnson of Chicago for transfer to Kansas City.

"I had an inkling that Johnson would get the club. It was the Mack brothers who wanted me to manage the team," O'Doul told newsmen.

Swedish Champion Injures Ankle

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 4 (AP)—Bengt Nilsson, Sweden's European high jump champion, said today a sprained ankle will make it impossible for him to compete in the United States this winter as planned.

Yankees Change Mind, Will Stick In Binghamton For Year

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 4 (AP)—The New York Yankees announced tonight they would operate their Class A Eastern League baseball farm club in Binghamton for at least another year.

The Yankees had said three weeks ago that they would pull out of Binghamton because of poor attendance in the 1954 season.

Since that time, however, the Chambers of Commerce of Binghamton, Johnson City and Endicott, and many local businessmen have pledged a total of $30,000 to aid the club.

The announcement that the Yankees would operate here in 1955 came from Lee MacPhail, Yankee farm director.

The Triplets, who finished in fifth place, attracted only about 49,000 fans in the 1954 season, a drop of approximately 40,000 from the 1953 season.

Varsity 'S' Club Changes Program Date

A COMMUNITY concert planned by the Stroudsburg Varsity "S" Club has been postponed indefinitely, it was revealed last night by Sam Everitt, organization president.

Everitt didn't elaborate on his announcement but stated that the November 18 program has been postponed because of conflicting circumstances.

The program will be held at a later date.

Everitt also announced that the Varsity "S" Club would hold another important meeting next Thursday at the Municipal Building. The gathering is listed for 7:30 p.m. and refreshments will be served.

The Varsity "S" Club is an Alumni group interested in furthering the cause of athletics at Stroudsburg High and in the borough of Stroudsburg.

Virtually all members of the club are former graduates and athletes at Stroudsburg High.

Pitt Makes Lineup Switch

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 4 (AP)—Fleet Richie McCabe, a senior right half-back, was nominated today to start for Pitt Saturday when the upset minded football teams meet undefeated Ohio State at Columbus.

McCabe, who seldom has answered the opening whistle, has been outstanding in this week's drills. During the two-platoon area he was used on defense but the 165-pounder has blossomed into an offensive start in recent weeks.

Captain Tom Hamilton, Pitt's interim coach, said Ed Bose, a junior center, may get the starting call over John Cenci who suffered an ankle injury while the Panthers beat West Virginia last week.

Pitt, with a 3-3 record compared to Ohio State's 6-0 mark, will entertain for Columbus tomorrow.

Sain Uncertain About Future

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark., Nov. 4 (AP)—Alderman-elect Johnny Sain still is undecided about his future baseball plans.

The New York Yankee pitcher, who was one of six Walnut Ridge aldermen elected in Tuesday's election, said today "We'll just have to wait and see" about his off-mentioned retirement plans.

"I changed my mind a couple of times before last season," Sain said today, "so this time I'm not saying anything about it."

RILEY

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

We've mentioned from time to time this week the old banner which was displayed at a pep rally at Stroudsburg High last week and again at last Saturday night's football game. As an added thought I believe it proper to mention the fact that the banner was procured by Stroudsburg High in 1924 and as mentioned before rescued from the great fire of 1928. The banner was actually obtained for the school by Grant Nitrauer, now a prominent Stroudsburg attorney but at that time football coach of the Mountaineers.

Nitrauer helped to start football at Stroudsburg High in 1922 and during the 1924 campaign the Mountaineers lost only two games, even though the squad was composed of only 13 players. Stroudsburg bowed to Bethlehem by two touchdowns and Allentown by one. The Allentown victory came in the final seconds of the game when Stroudsburg players thought the contest had ended. An Allentown back continued to run and scored what proved to be the winning touchdown. In order to honor the players gold footballs were purchased.

The players had taken sales to raise money for various items and after all planned purchases were made a little money was remaining. Stroudsburg High at the time was doing business with a small sporting goods company in Ithaca, N. Y. and Nitrauer arranged for purchase of the banner. The banner hung in the old school gymnasium from that time until the 1928 fire. Nitrauer had entered law school by this time and wasn't in Stroudsburg at the time of the famous blaze. There are several different stories of how the banner was saved, but the main thing is that it was saved and remains a very sacred athletic memento.

Maurice Schlicher, kg Stalington fullback, is currently leading the Lehigh Valley League in scoring with 74 points, 11 more than the entire Stroudsburg team has picked up against circuit opposition. Reports coming out of Stalington indicate that Schlicher is running better now than at anytime. Jack Follweiler is another outstanding offensive threat for the Slayers. The Mountaineers, who have allowed 70 points to league foes, tangle with Stalington tomorrow, on the latter's home field. Follweiler, who has missed several games, has scored 31 points this far in league opposition.

Stalington has scored 126 points against 118 for the opposition in Lehigh Valley League activity. Stalington has scored 20 touchdowns and added six extra points as a team, while the Mountaineers as a unit own 10 touchdowns and three extra points. Stroudsburg's record going into today's contest is two wins, two defeats and one tie. Stalington has two victories and three setbacks on its agenda.

"Chico" Varona, welter-weight champion of Cuba, isn't allowing himself to get out of shape as he campaigns for the title now held by Johnny Saxton. Varona, who easily defeated Johnny Bratton last week, can vault right into the middle of the title picture if he earns a convincing victory over Al Andrews in Chicago next Wednesday. Varona, a stalwart of Nino Valdes, number one heavyweight challenger is currently working out at Harry's Farm. Paul Perez is the name of the boy who spars daily with the hard hitting Varona.

Only three of four scheduled matches were rolled in the Tuesday Night Bowling League on the American Legion alleys on Tuesday. Lack of pin boys was the reason for postponement of the one match. East Stroudsburg High began basketball practice Wednesday night, which makes Dick Farber about the busiest men in the area. Dick works until 6 p. m. or later in his position as assistant football mentor and then takes over the basketball duties after supper. The Cavaliers enjoy an open date in football this weekend.

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will feature eight wrestling matches this winter. The grapplers may also take part in the state meet if finances permit such a trip. Bloomsburg, long absent from all ESSTC athletic schedules, appears on the wrestling slate. The Huskies will provide the opposition for the Warriors in the second outing of the season for the latter team. George Ockershausen will again coach the ESSTC wrestlers.

The ESSTC basketball squad is currently hard at work under new coach Jerry Palaia. The Normal Hill hoopers are scheduled to launch the present campaign on Saturday, December 4.

Third Chapter--A's Go To Kansas City

Connie Signs Papers On Sick Bed

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4 (AP)—Chicagoan Arnold Johnson today bought the Philadelphia Athletics for Kansas City. Connie Mack, 91-year-old founder of the American League club, signed the final paper from his sickbed.

Johnson announced at a news conference he had acquired the franchise for approximately three and one-half million dollars from Connie and his two sons, Roy and Earle. He said the grand old man of baseball would get $604,000; Roy and Earle $450,000 each.

The price of three and one-half million is reached by adding a $1,200,000 mortgage and other debts of approximately $800,000 to the price of the Mack stock. Johnson said one million dollars more will be set aside to help build the last place Athletics into a first division team.

Johnson, who for months has waged an unrelenting campaign to bring major league baseball to Kansas City, finally won out today in the fashionable Germantown apartment of "Mr. Baseball," Connie Mack. The 17-year-old former naval lieutenant-commander, concluded his deal while a stricken Philadelphia group seeking to buy the team and keep it in this city cooled its heels in the lobby.

The final drama in what must be described as the most fantastic sports story of the year, came at the bedside of one of baseball's all-time idols.

Connie, who will be 92 next month, is weak. He hasn't eaten a substantial meal since last Thursday. That was when American League clubowners gathered in New York and said "no" to an eight man Philadelphia syndicate seeking to buy the A's and keep them here — Connie's fondest dream.

On the word of those who visited the apartment where the deal was sealed, Connie was shattered. His wife, Katherine, shielded him from reporters. Acting for him, she told newsmen:

"Johnson offered too strong a proposition. There was nothing else we could do. Mr. Johnson is a nice man and he won out. We said who ever got here first would be the buyer. Mr. Johnson was here at 9 o'clock, the Philadelphia group came at 10 a.m. The Philadelphians dilly-dallied."

The Philadelphia group, Mrs. Mack referred to was made up of John P. Criscenti, Isadore Sley, Morton Lieberman and T. R. Hanft. Sley and Lieberman, taking their attorney along, were in the lobby with four checks totaling $604,000 made out to Cornelius McGillicuddy, Connie Mack's true name. They planned to buy out or keep Earle and Roy Mack, whatever the sons wanted.

But they never got the chance. First, Johnson came down after a two hour meeting with Connie, Earle and Mrs. Mack. He said he'd have a statement in an hour.

"I think it will be of interest," he said.

Then came Earle, also with his attorney, Alfred Luongo. Both wept. Earle faced the Philadelphia hopefuls and said:

"We lost. The club is sold to Johnson."

With that, Earle, a symbol of dejection, left the building. Soon came Johnson's statement:

"All the stock of the Philadelphia American League baseball club held by Connie Mack has been purchased by me for $604,000, and I have entered into a contract to purchase all of the stock of Roy Mack and Earle Mack. All of the Macks have signed a letter to the American League requesting approval of the transaction at the earliest possible date. Thereafter, the franchise will be moved to Kansas City."

The Macks sent the following letter to President Will Harridge of the American League:

"This letter is being sent to you by Cornelius McGillicuddy, Earle T. McGillicuddy and Roy G. McGillicuddy, to inform you that we have made an agreement with Arnold Johnson to sell all the outstanding stock of the American League baseball club of Philadelphia."

"This agreement contemplates a transfer of the franchise to Kansas City, Mo. We are now united in our desires and we herewith request the American League to approve the above, and would appreciate it, if such approval would be obtained by you at the earliest possible date."

In Chicago, Harridge said Johnson had notified him by telephone. He said a meeting of club owners to act on the sale and transfer to Kansas City will be held Monday in New York.

Johnson said both Earle and Roy remain in the organization under three year contracts and that Connie will be named honorary chairman of the board of directors. Salary and the type of position intended for the sons were not disclosed.

Also Johnson said, there is a place in the organization for both Connie Mack III, Roy's son, and Earle Mack Jr. It was indicated that young Connie would move to Kansas City.

Delay Listed In Filing Of Baseball Suit

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Filing of a multi-million dollar damage suit against major league baseball was delayed indefinitely today.

The suit has been threatened by Frank Lawrence, owner of the Portsmouth, Va., club in the Piedmont League, on grounds that he has been damaged through "invasion" of minor league territory by radio and television accounts of major league games.

Lawrence had said his suit would be filed by Nov. 1. But Atty. James P. McGranery, who is handling the case, said today he was not ready to act yet.

McGranery said the suit definitely will be filed, but refused to give any advance indication of when that would be — tomorrow, next week, or next year.

Kinda Smart Fits Picture

BALTIMORE, Nov. 4 (AP)—Kinda Smart was the name of today's feature winner and it also aptly fitted a new two million dollar clubhouse at the opening of Pimlico's fall racing.

For the first time since most of the 9,223 fans could remember, many of them could get seats in the club. There were 2,000 of them compared to a handful in the small job that had served since 1928. In the past, most clubhouse patrons had to stand on benches to see the races.

Today's entire crowd could be handled in the new structure. The shelter was welcome because it was cold for the first of 15 days' racing at the 81-year-old track.

Surgeon To Examine Reynolds

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 4 (AP)—A plastic surgeon tomorrow will examine the deep finger gash that may force Allie Reynolds to retire as a pitcher for the New York Yankees.

A skin grafting operation was performed on the wound which Reynolds suffered in a shower room accident in Colorado Springs.

Reynolds, who won 13 and lost four with the Yankees last season, said he won't make a decision on his baseball future until the finger heals and he can tell whether it will be crippled.

Kansas City Fans Keep Fingers Crossed

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 4 (AP)—"Is it really true this time? Is it really true?"

Kansas City baseball fans poured that question into newspaper and radio stations today following the announcement that the Philadelphia Athletics had been sold to Arnold Johnson, Chicago millionaire, who will bring the franchise here.

Fans recalled that less than a month ago Kansas City "had" the A's only to have their joy quelled when the deal fell through as the Macks—Earle, Roy and Connie—made a last ditch stand to save the club for Philadelphia.

They noted, too, that the American League club owners will have to meet again before the big deal is finalized.

City Manager L. P. Cookingham said it was "just wonderful" and added:

"We've voted 57 1/2 million dollars worth of bonds, annexed 48 1/2 square miles of territory, are building two bridges across the Missouri River, a new 26 million dollar airport, and have the biggest construction program in the city's history. It's a fitting climax to Kansas City's greatest year."

While Johnson will call the "plays," it is understood here that work on enlarging Blues Stadium, home of the city's American Assn. team for years, from a 16,000 to 36,000 seating capacity will begin immediately.

Washington Official Refuses To Recognize Deal For A's

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—Calvin Griffith, executive vice president of the Washington Senators, said today that no sale of the Philadelphia Athletics to Arnold Johnson can be made final without another meeting of American League club owners.

A vote of three club owners can prevent the sale of any team.

Griffith would not comment publicly on whether he might change his mind and vote for the transfer. It was learned there is virtually no possibility that Griffith will vote for the transfer.

Walter (Spike) Briggs, owner of the Detroit Tigers, already has served notice he will vote against it.

Minor Leagues To Consider Draft Changes

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 4 (AP)—Legislation to open up the annual player draft, and to close down on major league television-radio broadcasts, will be considered Nov. 29-Dec. 3 by the minor league leagues at their Houston, Tex., convention.

The draft proposal would allow major league clubs to select three players instead of one from each minor league club, with draft prices boosted radically. The broadcast legislation would ban all channeling into minor league territory.

The proposals, to become part of the major-minor agreement should the minors approve them at Houston and the majors sanction them at their Dec. 6-8 sessions in New York, are designed to give further aid to the fading minors.

Summer Tan 'Out Of Danger'

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP)—Summer Tan, winner of the rich Garden State Stakes last Saturday, was reported improved today and "out of danger."

The colt, owned by Mrs. Russell Firestone, suffered a blood clot, an ailment similar to colic, last Monday. For a while his condition was serious.

Commercial 'C' Rolls

COMMERCIAL "C" League Keglers swing into action at Harmon's Recreation today at 9:15 p. m. Schedule follows:

Alleys one and two—Lanternman's Funeral Home vs. Worthington Mower.

Alleys three and four — Cole's Drug Store vs. Regina Hotel.

Alleys five and six—Kreamie Ice Cream vs. Tru-Matic.

Jack, who started off this year's Delaware encounter in the same manner as he did last year's, by returning the opening kickoff for long yardage from his own 15 to the Delaware 38, picked up 14 yards in three carries before the injury forced him out of action.

McDonald has been the spark-plug of the Mules attack. In 'Berg's six games this year he rolled up a total of 334 yards rushing to lead the team in that department. A shifty, breakaway runner with darting speed, he was a vital cog in the Mules' attack and his shoes will be hard to fill. He also handled most of the punting chores for the Cardinal and Gray.

Enumerators To Canvass Area Farms

FIELD WORK in the 1954 Census of Agriculture gets under way locally next Monday when a force of enumerators will start visiting every farm in the area, according to the field supervisor, Dr. John J. Stoudt of the Philadelphia office.

Farm census questionnaires have been mailed to all farm operators. The enumerators will visit all local farms to collect the questionnaires and, if necessary, assist the farmer in filling out the report form.

The 1954 census is the 16th in a series of nationwide farm enumerations, the first of which was conducted in 1840. The census is taken at five-year intervals to provide up to date statistical information about more than five million farms which supply food and raw materials for manufacture of goods used by the people of the United States, now numbering about 162.5 million.

The current census will yield information on the number and size of farms, acreage and harvest of crops, livestock production and inventories, selected farm facilities and equipment and selected farm expenditures.

Dr. Stoudt emphasized that all information about individuals and their farm operations furnished to the Census Bureau is held in absolute confidence under Federal law.

It is used only to provide summary figures such as totals, averages, and percentages. The information on an individual report cannot be furnished to any one other than sworn census employees and thus cannot be used for investigation, taxation, or regulation.
